

SIMON KEEBLE

Operations Director UK&I

Simon Keeble joined Fast Lane in 2007. He is responsible for the delivery engine of Fast Lane UK making sure all classes and projects are delivered to a consistently high standard. This is achieved by using the most experienced, talented instructors and consultants available coupled with Fast Lane's unrivalled lab infrastructure.

There's nothing Simon likes more than a challenge, making sure our customer's most exacting needs are met, on time and on budget. During his time with Fast Lane, Simon has successfully project managed complex global training programmes for high profile channel partners as well as meeting and exceeding the most demanding of content development projects.

When he is not spending his spare time with his wife and 4 young children, Simon likes to blow things up! For the last 17 years he has fronted professional, operator-fired fireworks displays for one of the country's leading firework companies. Whether it's a weddings or party for the rich and famous or a huge local authority shows on November 5th, Simon is on hand to make sure it goes with a bang!
